
Transfer Of Radionuclides In Natural And Semi Natural Environments

modelling the transfer of radionuclides from naturally ... - working group on modelling the transfer of radionuclides from naturally occurring radioactive material (norm). theme 3: protection of the environment working group on the review of data and testing of models for predicting the transfer of radionuclides to non-human biological species. exposure assessment to radionuclides transfer in food chain - 4 radionuclides transfer in food chain begin to weather off the surface, and the transfer from pasture to soil (k 31, d-1), considering that root uptake is a reversible process described with first order kinetic equations for the root uptake balance (teale et al , 2003; iaea, 2002). radionuclide transfer to fruit in the iaea trs no. 472 - the relative significance of each pathway after release of radionuclides depends upon the radionuclide, the kind of crop, the stage of plant development and the season at time of deposition. furthermore, in agricultural ecosystems, the transfer of radionuclides to fruit is generally affected by hu- modelling the transfer of radionuclides to fruit - biosphere of radionuclides from radioactive waste disposal facilities. relevant radionuclides when considering transfer to fruit from atmospheric deposition were identified as ³h, ¹⁴c, ³⁵s, ³⁶cl, ⁹⁰sr, ¹²⁹i, ¹³⁴cs and ¹³⁷cs. the transfer of radionuclides to fruit is complex and involves many interactions between biotic and abiotic components. model of the long-term transfer of radionuclides in forests - model of the long-term transfer of radionuclides in forests rodolfo avila, facilia ab may 2006 keywords: modelling radionuclides forest, biosphere, ecosystems, srcan. this report concerns a study which was conducted for skb. the transfer of radionuclides to wildlife - springer - the transfer of radionuclides to wildlife n. a. beresford received: 5 july 2010/accepted: 29 july 2010/published online: 15 august 2010 springer-verlag 2010 over the last decade, a number of approaches have been developed to determine the exposure of, and in some instances risk to, non-human biota (i.e. wildlife1) from
